President's Welcome

The Angel Breakfast Club actively works with early stage software, Internet, and communications companies in Silicon Valley by providing capital, contacts, industry knowledge, and hands-on skills.

ABC members are individuals that exhibit exceptional abilities in the incubation and management of early stage technology companies and are active in Silicon Valley's entrepreneurial and investment communities. These individuals either represent early stage venture capital funds or are entrepreneurs and executives that have held leadership roles in emerging software, Internet, and communications companies.

Every first Tuesday of the month the group meets at 7am for networking and to review three companies. A strict time limit of 20 minutes is enforced for each company to present their plans to the group. "If you can't make your pitch in 20 minutes, you need more refining," says ABC President, David Adams. "Focussed follow-on meetings are held a week later to allow individual ABC members to take a closer look."
